

CONCEPT

A political party based on equality and compassion.

Creation of a policy base derived from a continuum between fourth-wave feminism and grass-roots Christianity.

At the same time remaining non-gendered and non-religious.

An awareness that extreme economic stratification leads to genetic stratification, and that the suffering, illness, and early death caused by poverty can be re-framed as economic eugenics.

Development of a policy base with other political parties outside of the left/right paradigm which can be applied and adopted internationally, in part or in whole.

POLICY DIRECTIONS

A non-gendered candidate selection process, but reactive to current inequalities in representation.

Currently women make up 32% of MPs. In the 2014 election the 'T Party' would have women in the first 21 list positions.

Full funding for community services such as rescue helicopters, ambulances, water life saving, women's refuges, men's shelters.

Research and development for a decentralised, peer-to-peer model of government. 'Continuous democracy' via electronic voting. Democracy taught in schools, and a 'democracy village' built adjacent to Parliament.

Open all government communications and meetings to the public via internet and streaming media.
Work backwards from total transparency to determine which services and interactions justify privacy.

Denounce war, mass surveillance, and the targeting of non-Western countries for invasions and illegal killings.

Initiate a bi-annual international three day holiday/music festival on the summer and winter solstices, with the first starting on December 21st, 2014 in New Zealand.

Free basic health supplies such as contraceptives, tampons, pads etc.

STRATEGIES

A budget of $0 for election campaigning, using only social media and word of mouth.

Alignment with the Internet Party, Mana, and the Green Party, deferring policy direction and voting indications to those parties in their key areas of interest.

Three large-scale project proposals in co-operation with each of the three parties above.

With the Internet Party:

To develop safe internet initiatives for children and families.

With Mana:

To develop a bi-cultural economy model using a pilot project centred around Ngaruawahia, Kirikiriroa, and the Waikato River.

With the Green Party:

Expand current, local, non-native pest-eradication programmes with a long term goal of a return to indigenous flora and fauna.

Highlight universal suffrage gained in 1893, protests against apartheid in 1981, and nuclear-free policies in 1984, emphasising New Zealand's proud history of social change, and our potential for future social innovation as the 'first country to see the light'.

Teach the concepts of non-violence and informed consent in communities and schools, initiating and building conversations around ways to achieve zero-crime and zero-rape, zero-incarceration, zero-unemployment, and zero-corruption.

Concentrate on individual issues such as Pike River, Flockton Basin, and Bastion Point to re-centre New Zealand on it's long history of fairness and justice.
